

Indian Myna Cage Trapping Program

To help control these species, Gladstone Regional Council offers the hire of Indian Myna traps to residents experiencing difficulties with the pest on their property. The traps are basic cagetraps and require bait to be placed inside the trap.

Indian Mynas are native to the Asian sub-continent and are regarded as a major pest in Australia. They compete with native animals for nesting resources and food, as well as potentially being a vector for exotic diseases.

The distribution of Indian Mynas in the Gladstone Region is predominately centred in Gladstone City area, in particular Barney Point, Gladstone Central, South Gladstone and West Gladstone.
